

John Burningham is the State's Energy Program Director responsible for Utah's High Performance Building Programs. He has leveraged Energy Engineers, Systems Commissioning Agents, Envelope Commissioning Agents and Facility Managers to further owner value and long term performance in over 50 capital development and large energy projects. He holds a Masters in Architecture and after practicing Architecture for many years consulted for various state governments, the USGBC/LEED and EPA in a variety of projects and programs.